With over 46 years of experience, Roger Pierce, the founder, is one of the lead designers at GatorSkitch Architects, Inc. He has experience in the planning, design and management of various types of facilities, including educational facilities, multifamily housing, commercial office buildings, and religious structures for a broad range of building types (i.e. science, instructional and administrative).

It is Mr. Pierce's passion for artistry and design that is the backbone of GatorSkitch today. His creative flair may be seen in the design of a variety of projects involving extensive renovations, historical restoration, additions and remodeling of existing structures.

Mr. Pierce was the principal of his own firm in Florida and Pennsylvania from 1962-1996. He has designed more than 3,000 apartment units, public libraries and numerous public schools. Many of his award-winning designs have been recognized for their standards of excellence by both state and federal agencies as well as by peer organizations.
